

WILL MAKE NO CHANGE IN TUBERCULIN TEST

Health Board Stands by Date Originally Set for Compulsory Examination.

ONE-THIRD OF HERDS TESTED

Department Can Furnish Names of Dairywomen Whose Cows Are Free From Tuberculosis—Will Not Require General Pasteurization.

After threshing the matter out at length in executive session last night, the Board of Health voted to stand by its resolution of March 20, fixing September 1, 1915, as the time limit within which all dairies supplying milk to Richmond shall submit to the board satisfactory evidence that their herds have been demonstrated by the tuberculin test to be free from tuberculosis. The decision officially ends an agitation for an immediate or early testing of all herds, which has in the past few weeks reached imposing proportions. Pressure was brought to bear upon the Board of Health to shorten the time limit set by the resolution of March 20, and dairymen took alarm at the possibility of the drastic enforcement of a law for which many of them were not prepared.

A preliminary public hearing, presided over by the executive, James Bellwood, in behalf of the dairymen, asked that the board do not shorten the September 1, 1915, time limit. A drastic enforcement of the tuberculin test would do much to harm the dairy industry in Virginia, which was still in the developing stage. In time, he thought, the test will be applied by all dairymen as a matter of course, but it was not wise, he said, to put into effect at once a compulsory law.

FOURTY-SEVEN HERDS

Tables presented by the Dairy Inspecting Department showed that of the 150 herds supplying Richmond, forty-seven herds have been shown to be free from disease by the tuberculin test. While in some cases these tests were made without the supervision of the Health Department by private veterinarians, there was no reason to presume, it was held, that they were not properly conducted.

In affirming the date fixed by the resolution of March 20, the board took the position that a thorough enforcement of the tuberculin test rule would not be possible in time. Every encouragement will be offered to dairymen to anticipate the time limit by an earlier testing of their herds, but the rule will not be rigidly applied until September 1, 1915.

It was pointed out at the meeting that every person in Richmond today who desires milk from tested herds is in a position to get it from the forty-seven herds of this type that are now supplying the city. The Board of Health is in a position to furnish the names of all dairymen who can comply with this regulation.

INDICES AGAINST

COMPULSORY PASTEURIZATION

The board decided also against enforcing compulsory pasteurization as a substitute for tuberculin testing until the rule goes into effect. It was the belief of several members that pasteurized milk would not be acceptable to a large proportion of the people of Richmond, and that more or less justification might be found for this. It was thought far more advisable to leave the matter of pasteurization to the individual consumer. The process is comparatively simple, and the board will shortly prepare printed instructions describing home pasteurization. These will be easily obtainable at Board of Health headquarters.

While it voted against compulsory pasteurization, the board will not interfere with the commercial pasteurization of milk by such dealers as desire to employ the process. The only stipulation that will be made is that the milk so treated shall be pasteurized in accordance with rules and regulations which will be adopted at the next meeting of the Board of Health. The regulations will in all probability include a rule that all recipients containing pasteurized milk shall bear a label indicating that the contents have been pasteurized and giving the date of pasteurization.

WOULD SECURE PLANS TO REMODEL CITY HALL

Administrative Board Would Change Interior to Make Waste Room Available for Public Use.

The Administrative Board yesterday passed a resolution asking the Council to appropriate $150 to enable it to secure plans for remodeling the staircases of the City Hall on the first and second floors. The movement is inspired by Carlton McCarthy, whose plan it is to narrow the present wide stairs and to break the long flights by landings. The interior arrangement of the City Hall has been the butt of criticism from many sources. The waste of valuable space by over-massive pillars and stairways is frequently commented upon by visitors, and has been pointed out on numerous occasions by city authorities. Mr. McCarthy's idea is to break the present long flights between the first, second and third stories by constructing landings half way up, and, perhaps, reducing the width of the stairways themselves, if the plan is found feasible.

AUSTRALIAN GIRLS SEEK CORRESPONDENTS

Ask Sheriff J. Herbert Mercer to Give Them Address of Some Young American Men.

Miss Amy Harding, nineteen years old, and Miss Alice Stratton, twenty-one, are two young Australian girls. Evidently their hearts beat in sympathy with the sentiment expressed in an erstwhile popular song, the title of which is "For Every Girl Who's Lonely There's a Boy Who's Lonely, Too."

Miss Stratton, acting for both, has written to Sheriff J. Herbert Mercer, requesting him in a gracefully worded epistle, to put them in communication with two nice young Richmond men who may be sufficiently interested in two nice, intelligent Australian girls, their stationery, chronograph and direct dictation indicate it to inform them regarding the inhabitants of this country, their manners and customs. The communication from Miss Stratton is dated at Bendigo, Victoria, Australia, June 18. It came in the sheriff's morning mail yesterday. It reads:

"Dear Sir:—Through your influence, my friend, aged nineteen years, and I, aged twenty-one, would like to correspond with some young Americans. We think it would be very interesting to hear from somebody in your city, as we young Australians have vague ideas of the inhabitants of other countries and their customs.

"Thanking you in anticipation, we are, dear sir, Yours sincerely,

"ALICE STRATTON.

"AMY HARDING.

ARE WRINKLES CAUSED BY MODERN SOCIAL LIFE?

Often the papers and magazines have made the rather broad statement that modern social life is the only cause for wrinkles. Undoubtedly modern social life contributes some to the existence of wrinkles, but one can hardly say it is the cause. However, the wrinkles do come and old age has never made for attractiveness, so we use the best means to resist the tell-tale marks. A search for the very best in wrinkle eradicators has brought us to this formula for an economical vegetable jelly cream as the simplest wrinkle remover and skin stimulator. Its mask-like action protects the surface while it stimulates the blood vessels to perform their up-building work. Just get from your druggist an ounce of almondin, put it into a fruit jar and add a half a pint of water. Before retiring apply rather thickly over wrinkled or flabby surface and allow it to dry. It will harden rapidly and you will note a slight tightening of the skin. In the morning remove with hot water and note the immediate effect, which you will find lasting.—Advertisement.
